PRESENTATION SKILLS

THE SECRETS OF GREAT PRESENTING & STORY TELLING

The way you present says a lot about you, your business and what you are proposing. Making the time to practice and perfect your pitch is critical, but often hard to do. This masterclass will cover making the most of your structure, the science storytelling and the art of delivering your pitch

Nerves can get to the best of us so having the right tools to set you up for success is a critical step for any presenter. Drawing on the insights and learnings of some great presenters and world-famous speeches we show you how to anchor your delivery around your audience, keep the message simple and deliver your message through storytelling.

The temptation is to cram too much into your presentation - we explore how to structure your thinking and content simply around a handful of key messages showing you what you can do to bring these alive and relate them to your audience.

Knowing what you want to say is one side of the coin. The other is making the message compelling and being persuasive without becoming too 'salesy' so you draw the connection between your product and your audience's need. Part of this is refining your delivery techniques, harnessing the power of verbal and non-verbal cues, building rapport and managing questions.
